

upon the earnings of the mother and little Ellen for support; and these had, of late been much curtailed by the illness of little Jennie.

"I could not let her lie and die," said the weeping woman.

Uncle John Markham was not an eloquent man, yet, somehow the words which he spoke to that fallen, discouraged husband, that night awoke feelings of hope in the poor fellow's heart to which he had long been a stranger.

CHAPTER III.

It was quite late when the old man reached his nephew's house that night, and Mr. Jimps and his wife were too sleepy to ask many questions; but at the breakfast table the next morning, they were disposed to be quite curious on the subject of his late hours.

"Pie, Uncle John," began Mrs. Jimps, smiling, as she handed him his coffee, "this never will do. I shall have to write to Aunt Sarah about it."

"I think that I shall write to her myself, this morning, returned the old man in the same light tone."

"But uncle, these must be very interesting people, these friends of yours, to keep you up so late," said Mr. Jimps.

"They are; so much so, Dimmie, that I must introduce them to you. Will you call with me some time during the day?"

"With great pleasure, uncle."

It being New Year's Day, however, Mr. Jimps, amid calls and business, quite forgot Uncle John's proposal—the more readily as the old gentleman was absent most of the day on business of his own, and it was not until he was about to dress for the donation party in the evening, that the old man saw fit to remind him of the engagement.

"Why, it is too late now, Uncle John—Julia has already commenced dressing for the party," said the little man.

"Well, I can't go to the party with you until I have called on these friends, that's certain," said the old man. "If you are minded to go with me, I'll have Black Simon to the door by the time you are dressed, and we can be there and back again by the time that Julia gets rigged, if she is like most women folks."

Black Simon was at the door in time, and bore them with flying steps along the crowded streets. On, on they went, past brilliantly lighted parlors, from whence came the sounds of music and laughter—on, to where the streets began to narrow, and the lights began to dwindle, until, with a suddenness that almost took Mr. Jimps's breath from his body, the old man drew up before a rickety old building.

"Uncle John, you must have mistaken the place; your friends surely cannot live here," cried Mr. Jimps from beneath the many folds of his scarf.

"May be so—we'll see," was the reply, as the old man sprang out and taking a rope from the sleigh, fastened Black Simon securely to a post.

It was too cold for Mr. Jimps to remonstrate; his teeth chattered and his scarf was almost frozen to his lips, even then, so stepping carefully in his dainty, glistening boots, he followed the old man through a gloomy hall and up the dirty stairs. Mr. Jimps was somewhat fastidious and more than once he would have taken exception to the various smells, that, coming from the different rooms, seemed to congregate in the hall, had he not fortunately, been too wrapped up to be aware of them.

Uncle John rapped softly at Ives' door, and after waiting a few moments, as no one came opened it himself. One glance around the apartment taught him the cause of that silence. Near the stove, with his little boy in his arms, who was sobbing in that peculiar spasmodic manner that indicates the exhaustion of the physical frame, and William Ives, with his eyes fixed upon the bed which had been arranged as decently as possible to receive the dead body of little Jennie. The mother had done all her scanty means allowed. She had parted the soft hair on the little brow, straightened the shrunken limbs, and robed them in a pretty white frock, the last relic of happier days. The dainty edgings with which it had been trimmed were in strange contrast with the miserable bed coverings—edgings wrought by her busy fingers in those happy days when a mother's glad anticipations first stirred her heart. Then she had flung herself on her knees by the side of the bed, and with her face buried in the cloth, neither wept nor moved.

The grave-eyed Ellen stooped over the bed, and was trying to place a poor, sickly looking rose in the cold hand of the little one. Uncle John glanced at the bush she had showed him the night before, and knew at once from whence it came. It was her all poor thing!

"She was first to observe their entrance, and soon both parents were mingling words of deep gratitude with their tears."

"I shall never, never forget your kindness, sir, to the day I die!" exclaimed the mother, turning to Mr. Jimps. "Much as we needed the money, starving as we were, we thought not less of your confidence in us than we did of that. It was so kind, so noble in you to trust us; but you shall be repaid, sir; William and I are determined to do it, if we work our fingers to the bones; and this gentleman to come as he did through the snow to aid us. Oh, how can we ever be grateful enough."

"My kindness! repay me! you here!" exclaimed the bewildered Mr. Jimps turning to Uncle John and rapidly unbuttoning the folds of his scarf, as if pressed for breath.

"Yes, Dimmie, I was certain that you did not quite understand the errand of that little girl, yesterday, so I followed her home and settled your bill myself. It was well I did, for the poor things needed it very much."

"Save a bit of bread for the children, and a spoonful of milk for—"

and the poor mother glanced sadly at the white-robed little figure on the bed, "for her, sir we had not tasted food for two days."

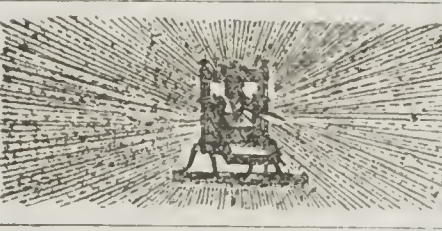

Mr. Jimps was neither an unjust nor hard-hearted man, he had simply been guided by the current custom of the day; and, when he had subscribed his quota to any benevolent object, allowed himself to consider his responsibility at an end. Now, a new light broke in upon him; he turned to his old relative and said earnestly:

"Thank you, thank you, Uncle John! you could not have done me a kinder deed; or," he added, in a lower tone, "taught me a better lesson. It is one which I shall never forget."

And, to do Mr. Jimps justice, he never did. He told the story to Julia, when they got home, and bravely took his share of the blame, while tears gathered in her pretty eyes, and she almost forgot her present and the donation party in her interest in the Ives'.

They assisted the father in finding employment, aided and encouraged him in his endeavors to overcome his evil habits, and even did not grumble when Uncle John took little Ellen Ives to live with him and Aunt Sally, and be a daughter to them in their old age, though they knew the inheritance of their darling Augustus Adelman, would be much curtailed by the deed.

THE POST

LEBANON, KY.,

Wednesday Morning, Dec. 22, 1852.

To the patrons of the Post, and everybody else, we wish a happy Christmas and a happier New Year. May they enjoy many returns of the same—May old Father Time tread lightly on their heads;—and may they, every one, meet with a happy Eternity after they have bid adieu to life's turmoil, heart-aches and troubles; is the prayer of your humble Editor.

The present year may have been to you, reader, one of happiness and pleasure; we hope it has; but how many are there around you who cannot say as much?—Many a fond mother sat at the warm hearth on last Christmas eve, with her prattling, joyous children around her; her husband in the manly vigor of health, looking on with deep yet silent happiness. Where are the members of this happy group now? Only one short year has past; and in that twelve-month, one by one have dropped off like the green clothing of the forest, and left the parent stems standing desolate and drear. Death has been there, and with his rude grasp, defaced the picture. Perhaps we see this ruthless porter to Eternity tearing asunder the last tie which binds the now childless wife to earth; and leaving her the only vestige of a once happy family. Oh, how desolate must she not feel.—Look around you reader; can you not see, within the circle of your acquaintance, families, who, on last Christmas eve were as happy as you are now, and yet, within the past year, have lost one, two, and perhaps three of their most prized members? Perhaps, a father and husband, who was looked up to as something more than human; whose hands supported and whose mind instructed and directed the whole household; that support and that instruction and direction has been torn from them.—Perhaps a dearly cherished sister and daughter has faded in the Spring-time of life, as doth the fragrant and lovely flower when plucked from the life-giving stem.—Or perhaps a promising son and brother, in whom the fond hopes and well-wishes of the whole family are centered, has passed through the portals of death into an endless, an uncertain eternity. God grant, dear reader, that you may not have your hearth-stone desecrated by the fell destroyer, during the coming year; and may the Omnipotent Being who holds us in the hollow of his hand, grant you, a happy end and an endless eternity of happiness, when it pleases him to take you hence.

We have always thought that the festivities of Christmas, ought to open our hearts to the necessities and afflictions of our fellow mortals. The very elements, at this season, seem conspiring to make the poor suffer; and, as we are of one common stock, descendants of the same parentage, and are more fortunate, should endeavor, as much as in our power, to defeat its purpose. Whilst we are enjoying life, health, and plenty, we should remember those around us, who are not so fortunate. Then remember the poor during the present winter.

There will be a Grand Ball at the Hotel of Mr. James Kirk, in this place, on next Monday evening.

Our carrier, will, on New Year's Day, present to the patrons of the Post, and all its well-wishers residing in the town of Lebanon, an address. We hope our patrons will remember to bestow upon him something as a sort of remuneration for the trouble of every week bearing to their door their paper. Hot or cold, wet or dry, he has delivered it faithfully, surely you will not think it a hardship to bestow upon him a dime or so for so much service. Have, then, your dimes ready, nor think it charity to bestow them.

We would again call the attention of our town authorities to the condition of the back streets. The hole at the corner of Water and 1st Cross street, is abominable; as well as the whole street down to Second. We do hope that something will be done with it, for it is a disgrace to the town. Then the condition of Second, which we spoke of last week, makes it impossible for vehicles to get into Water street with anything like comfort or safety. Will our Trustees please to look to it?

We have several times been asked what the vote was in Kentucky, for President and Vice President. Here is the result, as made out by the Board of examiners, composed of the Governor, Attorney General, and Secretary of State, on the 29th of November. The vote of Whitley county had not been officially returned, and was of course not included in the computation. The result was as follows:

For Scott and Graham	57,100
For Pierce and King	54,000
For Hale and Julian	266

Scott and Graham's majority 3,100

The reported vote of Whitley—sent by letter from the Clerk of the County Court to the editor of the Louisville Courier, and doubtless correct, is as follows:

Scott and Graham	358
Pierce and King	143

With this vote added, the result would stand thus:

Scott,	57,467
Pierce,	54,152

Scott's majority, 3,315

No Paper Next Week.

In conformity to an old and time-honored custom, and in order to rest our hands and head, we will not issue the Post next week. We hope our patrons will be taken up too much with the pleasures of a well spent Christmas, to miss it much. The next number will be issued on the Wednesday after New-Year's day.

AFRAY AND DEATH.—Last Sunday evening a young man of the name of Quinn was killed in an affray with Henry Carter, of Columbus, Ia., who cut his throat with a knife. The deceased had pursued Carter some distance with the avowed purpose of whipping him, which resulted in his own death. Carter was tried before examining court Columbus, and acquitted.

Encourage Home Interests.

We would remind our readers who are on the look out for the best handiwork, largest, and cheapest paper ever published, that they can find it in the COLUMBIAN & GREAT WEST—a mammoth weekly and Literary paper, neutral in politics and religion, published at Cincinnati. It is devoted particularly to Western Interests and by means of telegraphic dispatches, is able to give its readers all important news several days in advance of the Eastern papers. It gives full reports of all the leading markets, of the country, and a great quantity of everything that makes up a first-class family Journal. It offers the following extraordinary premiums to every new subscriber whether in clubs or single.—Ten of the monthly parts, (all yet unpublished,) of Dickens' great novel, "Bleak House," which will be completed in the paper; the "Western Recruits," a tale of Border Times," by Mrs. Dumont; and a copy of Miriam, or the Mystic Tie," a domestic novel by Walter Whitmore. These premiums at the Booksellers lowest prices, would cost more than the subscription price of the paper. On New Year's day it will commence an original novel by Eliza A. Dupuy, called the "CONCEALED TREASURE," a tale of the Spiritual Rappings: to be followed by the Phoenix, or the Lost Sox, by a distinguished author.

The "Columbian & Great West" has just assumed an entirely new and beautiful dress of clear types, pleasant for the eye to rest upon, and is unsurpassed, in reading matter, as to variety, &c.

TERMS.—One copy 1 year, $2 00. One copy 6 months $1 00. Four copies 1 year and one to Agent 6 months, $5 00. Eight copies one year and one to Agent 12 months, $10 00. Thirteen Copies 1 year and one to Agent 12 months, $20 00.

Address W. B. SHATTUCK, Editor and Proprietor. Or, E. PENROSE JONES, Publisher Cincinnati, Ohio.

Specimen copies will be sent on application post-paid to the publisher.

Hogs.—The weather was cold and highly favorable for slaughter yesterday, and all the packing houses were in full operation, and fully 10,000 were killed at the various houses.—Prices are firm, and we heard of sales of 1,000 Indiana hogs at 6 1-4 cents net; and 1,000 Kentucky hogs, in two lots, also at 6 1-4; and 950 at $630. The pens are still well filled, with receipts last evening of 550 hogs by the Frankfort railroad, and 1,144 by the Jeffersonville road.

The Terre Haute, Ia., Express, estimates that 75,000 hogs will be packed in Vigo county this year. Prices of hogs vary from $5 50 to $5 90 net. The receipts by the railroad have all been received in that quarter.—Lou. Cour. 18th.

Hogs are selling at $8 per hundred net, at Trenton, N. J.

To Editors.—A journeyman printer, named Joseph Stephens, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, left home in 1844, and was last heard of in 1847. His parents are in great distress on his account, and will be thankful to any one who will give them any information of him. Address Mr. D. Stephens, Fort Wayne, Indiana. Editors everywhere please copy.—Journal.

We learn that the Howl at the Mammoth Cave has been leased for the term of five years, by our fellow townsman, Dr. Rhodes Woods, who will take possession in a short time.

Harrodsburg (Ky.) Ploughboy.

Hogs.—The market is usually firm, and prices somewhat stimulated with sales of three lots of hogs amounting to two thousand one hundred and eighty at 6 1/4 cts; most holders asking higher rates. The packing houses are in full operation, and the pens continue well filled. The receipts by the Frankfort railroad last evening were 2,150 head.

At Jackson, Owsley & Co's pork house yesterday, 2,500 hogs were killed. At Graham, Floyd & Co's, some 1,500 were killed, and the other houses killed their usual complement. The total number of hogs received up to last evening, at all the points around the Falls is fully 192,000, which exceeds the total receipts of last season.—Lou. Cour. 16th.

Extensive Conflagration.

Last night about ten 10 o'clock a fire broke out in a barber shop adjoining the Fulton House, on Third street; near the river, occupied by Jacob Arnold. The fire communicated to the Fulton House on the corner of Third street, which was entirely destroyed. The flames then spread to four adjoining buildings toward Main street, occupied by John Arnold, cigar maker, Jacob Arnold barber, John A. Block, Union Hall coffee house, and Ernest Kinsel, bakery, which were all consumed. The Fulton House was occupied by John Trautman, coffee, house, Strat Goins, barber, Mrs. Johnson, eating house, Frank Moore, bakery, Peter Winter cigar manufacturer, Dr. Coffee, and some eight or ten families in the upper stories. The Fulton House and all the adjoining buildings which were destroyed, belonged to Samuel R. Page, Esq., and were partially insured.

The firemen were promptly on the ground soon after the flames broke out, and exerted themselves to their utmost, and would have subdued the fire much sooner, had the citizens shown any disposition to aid them.

Frank Smith, Director of the Union Fire Company, was severely injured by the falling of a wall.

We could not ascertain the loss by the fire, but judge it will not fall short of $25,000 or $30,000.—Lou. Dem. 18th.

—John L. Carey, Esq., who a few weeks since took charge of the Editorial department of the New Orleans Crescent, and was previously editor of the Baltimore American, died of cholera in New Orleans on the 14th.

The President of the United States and his Cabinet, together with the Governors of Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana have been invited to attend the opening of the Ohio and Baltimore Railroad to Wheeling, on the 1st of January next.

EXTRAORDINARY WEATHER.—A friend has just shown us a letter dated Northampton, Mass., Dec. 6, from which we tract the following:

"The season here is remarkable, the weather mild and pleasant not a flake of snow, or a particle of frost has yet visited us—the grass is still green and the cows go daily to pasture."

We venture the assertion that the like has not been known in that climate since the landing of the Puritans. While Charleston, South Carolina has been visited by heavy frosts, none have nipped the flowers and grass of New England. Surely the seasons are out of joint.

Indianapolis Journal.

STEAMSHIP DISASTERS.—The telegraph advises us this morning of the sinking of the steamer Western World and Moro Castle, near Memphis. The Western World was run into by the new steamer H. W. R. Hill, and is a total loss. After sinking she turned bottom up. Several lives were lost. The Hill was coming up and both the Western World and Moro Castle were from Cincinnati bound for New Orleans.—Lou. Cour. 18th.

Have You been to Hyman's?

IF NOT you ought to go to see the elegant styles, great variety and cheapness of their CLOTHING. They are having a great rush but their Room is large enough to accommodate a small Mass Meeting.

Far fine, medium and low priced Clothing, superior in quality, at Louisville prices, call at J. Hyman & Co's, over the Drug Store of L. H. Noble, on Main street, Lebanon, Ky.

"DIGEST" Such is the true meaning of the word "Pepsin," or of the two Greek words from which it is derived. This is the significant and appropriate title of the True Digestive Fluid or Gastric Juice, prepared by Dr. J. S. Houghton, of Philadelphia, from the fourth stomach of the Ox, for the cure of Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is Nature's own remedy for an unhealthy stomach. No art of man can equal its curative powers. It renders good eating perfectly consistent with health. See advertisement in another part of the paper.

Another Scientific Wonder.

GREAT CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA!

DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S

PEPSIN,

THE TRUE

DIGESTIVE FLUID,

OR

GASTRIC JUICE!

Prepared from Rennet, or the Fourth Stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M.D., Philadelphia, Pa.

"DIGEST" Such is the true meaning of the word PEPsin. It is the chief element, or great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of the Food, the Partinging, Preserving and Stimulating Agent. Cures Stomach and Indigestion. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming a true Digestive Fluid, precise like the natural Gastric Juice in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it.

This is Nature's own Remedy for an unhealthy Stomach. No art of man can equal its curative powers. It contains no Alcohol, Bitters, Acids, or Nauseous Drugs. It is extremely agreeable to the taste, and may be taken by the most feeble patients, who cannot eat a water cracker without acute distress. Beware of Drugged Imitations. Pepsin is not a Drug.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin infused in water, will digest or dissolve five pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

Scientific Evidence.

Call on the Agent and get a Descriptive Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of scientific evidence, from Liebig's Animal Chemistry; Dr. Combe's Physiology of Digestion; Dr. Forster on Food and Diet; Dr. John W. Draper of New York University; Prof. Dunglison's Physiology; Dr. F. Silliman, of Yale College; Dr. Carpenter's Physiology; &c., together with reports of cures from all parts of the United States.

Pepsin in Fluid and Powder.

Dr. HOUGHTON'S PEPsin is prepared in powder and in Fluid Form—and in prescription calls for the use of Physicians. The powder will be sent for one free of postage, for one dollar sent to Dr. Houghton, Philadelphia.

JOSEPH W. THIS—Every bottle of the genuine Pepsin bears the written signature of J. S. HOUGHTON, M.D., sole proprietor, Philadelphia Pa. Copy-right and Trade mark secured.

Sold by all Druggists and dealers in Medicine. Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

PROSPECTUS OF THE LEBANON POST.

Enough has been said and wrote upon the innumerable advantages arising out of having a newspaper in a County; I will not, therefore, enlarge upon this point. Feeling convinced that the people of Marion wish an establishment of the kind in their county, I have consented, after many solicitations, to make a trial; let us see what will be the result. I had partially made my arrangements to move up in the Ohio river, but if the people of Marion will show, by subscribing liberally for the "POST," that they want a paper, we will succumb to their wishes, and settle amongst them.

THE POST, will be strictly NEUTRAL in Politics and Religion, in all things else perfectly INDEPENDENT; expressing freely the views of the Editor and his Correspondents, on the passing events of the day, local matters, &c. I am decidedly in favor of Railroad communication in Kentucky, being firmly convinced that in that way alone, can our beloved State keep up with the advancement of the age and her older Sister States. I am decidedly in favor of a communication of this kind across the State, and thus giving us a direct intercourse with the great southern mart; being convinced that such an intercourse would redound to the benefit of all classes, and that the proposed route through Marion County is the best location in the state, and believe firmly that it can and will be run. We will advocate, conditionally, to the best of our ability, this truly beneficial enterprise and solicit the pens of others.

THE POST, will be dedicated to News, Agriculture, Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes, &c., &c. Nothing shall appear in its columns of a hurtful or demoralizing tendency to the mind; in a word, it shall be a FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

THE POST, will be issued weekly, on every Wednesday, on an imperial sheet at $2 per year in advance, $2 50 if paid in six months, or $3 if the payment is delayed until the end of the year. Wishing to commence on the last of April or the first of May, I would be gratified to receive all of my prospectuses, crowded with names before that time.
